TheSlap.com

The slap is a website for people to post about their friends. It lets people get to know others from another person's perspective. It lets you see how the people closest to you view you and lets you see all the good parts of you.

The slap provides a media board for each individual the user chooses to learn more about. Our team specializes in letting different communities share information and enjoyable activities based off themselves and their closest friends. Our programmers and AI system work to help make it easier for those to post about your friends and let you find out more about those people. This website reflects the core belief to include all members in society and let one see them for how others see them. Many people don't understand the value they hold in people's lives and our idea is to help them see how important they are to this world. Through this software people will get to engage with others who they know or don't on a level that others may not understand. As our motto says, "Slap your sense and listen".
